PHILADELPHIA UNIVERSITY IN TOP TIER OF U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT RANKING

PHILADELPHIA (August 31, 2005) — Philadelphia University, long-recognized as a premier institution for professional education, has placed in U.S. News & World Report's top tier of Best Masters' Universities in the North. The results of the survey are published in the 2006 "Best Colleges" issue of U.S. News & World Report (September 2005).

At Philadelphia University, many factors contribute to the environment of excellence. Students, faculty and staff form close relationships in a climate that fosters personal and intellectual growth; students gain professional skills combined with a broad general education that enables them to thrive in a global marketplace; and outstanding teaching, research and professional practice are hallmarks of the faculty.

Philadelphia University, founded in 1884, is a private university with 3,500 part- and full-time students from 38 states and 42 countries. The University offers more than 40 undergraduate and graduate degree programs in architecture, design, business, engineering, textiles, fashion, science and health.
