HAT'S OFF

- Philadelphia University alumnus Richard Dobrowolski '77 was recently named one of twenty-four 2006 Heroes of Chemistry by the American Chemical Society (ACS). As part of a Rohm & Haas team, he helped develop a greener type of binder, which is used in most fiberglass construction. The new, recyclable material can be safely transported, stored, applied and cleaned up. Along with his fellow awardees, Dobrowolski was honored at the ACS' annual meeting Sept. 10 in San Francisco.
- Philadelphia University Finance Graduate William C. Ebner '06 was recently named a Wall Street Journal 2006 Student Achievement Award winner. Philadelphia University's School of Business Administration faculty voted last spring to endorse Ebner for the award. Ebner is currently an assurance associate at PricewaterhouseCoopers, LLP in Philadelphia, where he reviews and analyzes financial and other data of various companies.
