FOCUS ON FACULTY

- Lloyd Russow, professor of International Business, was recently recognized by Multimedia Educational Resources for Learning and Online Teaching (MERLOT), an international initiative helping faculty to integrate technology into higher education, for his development of an international business portal. He created the portal, which logs more than 30,000 "hits" a month, 10 years ago to serve as a resource for students and business people seeking information on a variety of international business topics.
